Why advertise with us

We are a one-stop shop where employers post jobs without worrying about where to post or how much to pay on each site. With MaxRecruit, employers post once, pay once, and we list the job for maximum exposure to qualified candidates.

Most employers, especially small ones, need to hire but may not know where to post. Each job category is different and some jobs, especially those requiring specialized skills or a degree, will get the best results on LinkedIn. Other roles may do better on Indeed or Glassdoor. Employers can end up spending a lot of money on job sites without finding the right candidates. We solve this challenge quickly and effectively.
